Is a man sworn in as a railroad constable authorized to make arrests in matters not connected with the railway interests: say for drunken and disorderly conduct A. K. The act appointing railroad police gives them the power to arrest for any offense against the laws of this commonwealth which occurs upon or along said railroads, or on the premises of such corporations; but it does not seem that they are empowered to make arrests in other cases, except that the law provides that for certain offenses any citizen may make arrests. Has a merchant a lawful right to load his wagon with goods (such as he sells in his store) and go out and into another county and sell the goods from his wagon, or must he first take orders and then deliver the goods afterwards J. A. D. Such selling would be unlawful. It would be peddling, and no peddling, excepting goods of ones own manufacture, without a license is lawful,...
