It is harsh, and stock always reject it. It possesses no poisonous properties. It is a very pretty plant, and hence leniency has been shown to it, but it should be pulled up wherever it makes its appearance in a fresh place. Where Found. --It is a native of the Argentine, South America, but it has now spread to most sub-tropical regions of the world. In New South Wales, though not the commonest Verbena by any means, it is widely diffused in the coastal districts, and is spreading westerly. It frequents grass land, and commonly invades a district through the sides of its roads. It was doubtless originally brought to this State as a garden plant. It has been proclaimed in the following shires and municipalities: --Shires. Municipalities. Cockburn Gloucester Moss Vale, Ulmarra. Copmanhurst Patrick Plains. Stagger...
